To Branch I for kindly returning the file to Branch II after issue of orders on the main question.

I don't know the file is required in Branch II for dealing with the question of issuing a general circular as ordered. The file has been sent back to the Secretariat for submission to the Government. The question of issuing the general circular in Branch II should be dealt with separately

Instead of completely closing the doors against any possibility of clemency which may perhaps be really deserved in some cases – eg a case of person physically fit for service but physically unfit for insurance or family pension but where service has been long and exceptional – it would, it is respectfully submitted be better to have a fund similar to the Compassionate Fund as in British India and consider & decide each case on its merits. We may perhaps start with a Contribution of 10000 Rs per annum to the fund thereby the annual Expenditure be about 10000 Rs & carry on the unexpended balance to the credit of the fund and perhaps five 4 months may as a trial. If such proposal would be permissible.

Will Asst Secy please put up all papers & references regarding the compassionate fund of British India? I think a fund with a contribution of Rs 10,000 per annum will be found on comparison to be disproportionately

The circular proposed is not absolutely prohibitive but only says that Art 241 M.S.R will be strictly interpreted in future. We all know that cases have frequently come up which did not possess any very exceptional features.

Obn. The S.J. paper about Conflagration fund has been submitted to the Resdcy.

Of course Rs 1000 of Contribution is certainly large for Mysore but what I wanted to submit was that there were some cases really deserving of some help which instead of being headed as outside the rules or after doing some violence to the rules might be legalised so as to meet worthy cases. Hence deserving cases would get short shrift as falls afoul of [illegible] of technicalities.

I do not think that any such fund is necessary in Mysore. In British India a fund is necessary because the Supreme Financial authority viz. H.M's Secretary of State for India is not on the spot. The powers of even the Govt of India are limited in these matters and unless some such funds were created, action on applications of the kind concerned would become impossible Here in Mysore, H.H. the Maharaja being on the spot no such funds are necessary.

On the scale of ~~Cochin~~ the finances of the Govt of India, the annual grant for such a fund in Mysore, if one were to be started would be Rs 5000/- Evidently it is useless to establish a fund with such a grant. Besides the very principle of such a fund is objectionable

These papers may be filed for the present & put up when the next case of the kind is received - If necessary the transfer will then arise -
